

FOURTH ANGEL

The Fourth Angel is a revenge drama about a London newspaper columnist named Simon Boyd (Irons) who loses his novelist wife Maria (McGovern) and two of his three children during a failed airplane hijacking. Frustrated by perpetual international political stonewalling, Simon is encouraged by a shady U.S. diplomat named Davidson (Priestley) to look for "alternative" ways of attaining justice (and revenge). Simon is devastated when he learns that the hijackers were quietly released without being charged thanks to a backroom political deal. This prompts Simon to heed Davidson's "off the record" advice.
